Alta's Traditional Mountain Lodge

2016-2017

PLANNING for the FUTURE OF ALTA

One thing we know about the future is that it always seems to be here before you know it. Planning for the future in Alta is underway with Alta Ski Area, the Town of Alta and Mountain Accord, as well as a proposal for an Alta Land Exchange. Salt Lake Valley's growth is rapid, and the interest in outdoor recreation is placing greater demands on our natural environment and resources. Our community needs to plan for growth, while maintaining the environment, quality of life and recreational experiences offered in the Wasatch. There are several planning initiatives happening now, all offering opportunity for public comment and involvement at some phase in the process.

Alta Ski Area is located in the Wasatch-Cache National Forest, and operates by permit on US Forest Service lands. Alta released its Master Development Plan (MDP) Update in 2015. The MDP identified twelve projects for the next five years. The most controversial proposed projects are a tram from Germania Pass to the top of Mt. Baldy, and a new lift from the bottom of the Sugarbowl run to the top of Collins lift. The MDP is currently going through the National Environment Policy Act (NEPA) review process. For more information, please see the Forest Service project pages at tinyurl.com/jva7s5f.

The Town of Alta is working on a conceptual land use and transportation plan for the "commercial core" of Alta, which extends from the Peruvian Lodge on the west to the Albion Base on the east. This project takes inspiration from over a decade of planning and visioning activities in the Alta community, many of which reflect a desire to enhance Alta's year-round economy, pedestrian connectivity, and public spaces, while respecting the unique character of Alta and preserving Alta's environmental quality. Please visit ldi-ut.com/alta to see the draft plan.

Mountain Accord is a joint project of local, state and federal agencies, ski areas and conservation groups, working toward transportation and land use solutions for the Central Wasatch Mountains. Mountain Accord is a public process aimed at addressing immediate concerns, preserving the mountains for future generations, and realizing a long-term vision for the future. Now in its third year and Phase II of the project, efforts are focusing on land preservation and transportation solutions. More information is at mountainaccord.com.

The Alta Land Exchange is a proposal by Alta Ski Area for a land swap with the Forest Service granting Alta Ski Area private ownership of a substantial amount of land in Alta's base area, which is currently owned by the American people. Any proposed land exchange would be subject to review and approval under NEPA, which requires a process of public involvement. More information can be found at mountainaccord.com.

All of these planning efforts can have important effects on the Alta skiing experience. We encourage all who care about Alta to learn more about these initiatives and to make your ideas known. Our hope is that the outcomes of these planning processes will result in long-term preservation of the skiing experience for Alta skiers and guests, while maintaining the quality of the environment in Little Cottonwood Canyon. While you are at the Lodge, please feel free to talk with Mimi, Marcus or Cliff to learn more and share your ideas about these planning efforts and proposals.

PERFORMANCE CAMP HEAD COACH STEPHEN HELFENBEIN selected to Professional Ski Instructors of America (PSIA) National Alpine Team

The PSIA National Team is a very select group of instructors who are responsible for 'training the trainers,' and educating all other certified ski instructors on and off the snow. Stephen participated in the national selection process in April with other PSIA members, and was one of 14 individuals named to the team after a multi-day event in Breckenridge, Colorado. Stephen's term on the team is four years. The rigorous selection process involves extensive ski demonstrations, teaching clinics, presentations and testing. We congratulate Stephen on this major accomplishment!

Friends of Alta, a 501(c)(3) non-profit, is Alta's local land trust. The organization proactively acquires undeveloped privately owned land in Albion Basin for the preservation of open space to protect the vital watershed, wildlife habitat and scenic views.

Friends of Alta (FOA) also works to preserve the integrity of the Town of Alta's zoning regulations in an effort to protect Alta's prized landscape and watershed. As part of their Summer Stewardship Program, FOA and partners remove invasive plant species and plant trees to protect Alta's spectacular wildflowers and native vegetation. As part of an ongoing ecological assessment effort, FOA is a lead partner in the Alta Bird Survey program, and works with the University of Wisconsin-Parkside on a wetland study. This summer's Bill Levitt Fellow, Shelby Sly (attending University of Utah and pursuing degrees in Environmental and Sustainability Studies and Geography), has been tirelessly pulling invasive plant species, tabling at various events, conducting vegetation surveys, and serving as an Alta Summer Host, providing information on the local environment and best practices for recreating in the watershed.

FOA is excited to announce that Utah Representative Jason Chaffetz is presenting to Congress legislation to enact the Central Wasatch National Conservation and Recreation Area Act (CWNCRRA). The proposed legislation would accomplish a great deal for the Central Wasatch, of which Alta is a part. While placing protections on approximately 80,000 acres of our USFS lands, and adding 8,000 acres of new wilderness, it also establishes the White Pine Special Management Area, authorizes evaluation of the Albion Basin Special Botanical Area, directs wilderness boundary adjustments for transit infrastructure improvements in Little Cottonwood Canyon, and authorizes the USFS to conduct NEPA analysis on proposed land exchanges between the USFS and four Cottonwood Canyon ski areas, including Alta. Full engagement in the proposed Alta land swap is a top priority for FOA.

This legislation is an outcome of the Mountain Accord program. FOA has been a dedicated stakeholder attending meetings, writing letters, working closely with like-minded organizations, and finding common ground with not so obvious stakeholders all in the name of conserving and enhancing what makes the Central Wasatch so great! FOA want to thank all the various stakeholders in making this effort possible.

A donation to FOA is an investment in Alta's future. For more information and news, or to make a tax-deductible donation, please talk with Mimi Levitt or visit friendsofalta.org.

DEAR FRIENDS

As we go to press, there is a cold front moving in with significant snowfall in the forecast.

We had more powder days last winter than we can remember, and winter was still with us well into spring, with a 100-inch base in mid-May! Our locker room upgrade has been a big hit, and guests are also happy with the new Lodge Hill tow, with poma style seats and handles.

Following the most recent challenge by snowboarders in the 10th Circuit US Court of Appeals, the court's ruling determined that Alta still remains a "skiers only" mountain, and we don't expect that will change. Alta remains Alta, and we're glad for it.

The lifts will start running on November 18 and will continue through Easter Sunday, April 16, 2017. We look forward to seeing you this season!

CHEF'S CORNER

SALMON with PONZU SAUCE

Salmon Ponzu is one of our most popular dishes in both our winter and summer seasons. It is a requested recipe year-round and overdue for a Newsletter close-up. We use wild caught or responsibly farmed salmon; either option works well. Our secret is a quick teriyaki style marinade and then cooking on a charcoal or gas grill.

MARINADE:

- 1 cup tamari/soy sauce
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 T chopped garlic
- 1/2 cup chopped scallions

Mix well. Taste; if it is too salty you can add a little water. Marinate the salmon for as little as an hour.

PONZU SAUCE:

Ponzu is a traditional Japanese dipping sauce. You can find pre-made versions, but it is easy to make and tastes much better than store bought.

- 1 cup mirin (Japanese rice wine, available in most markets)
- 1/4 cup tamari/soy sauce
- 3T lemon juice

Reduce the mirin by one-third on medium heat. After it has thickened slightly whisk in the Tamari/Soy and the lemon juice. Traditionally it includes a few crushed red pepper flakes – up to you. It can be served hot or cold.

SALMON:

- 1 lb. wild or responsibly farmed salmon, cut into 4 oz. filets, marinate 1 hour.

Pat the filets dry after they come out of the marinade, treat your grill with a non-stick spray, and cook filets on a hot grill.

It is very handy to use a long tonged carving fork or a thin fish spatula to turn the fish. The first few filets may want to stick to the grill. We like to rotate the fish twice on each side for nice grill marks, and then turn after about 4 minutes. Repeat the turns and cook 4 more minutes. The fish is ready when a sharp knife or carving fork slides without resistance through the thickest part of the filet.

I like to serve the grilled filets over mixed greens with some julienned carrots to garnish the top. Any rice or grain makes a great accompaniment. Generously spoon the Ponzu over the salmon. Happiness ensues.

STAFF PROFILE: CATIE ROBINSON

Catie grew up in Michigan, and her introduction to Alta came as a young child when her family visited Utah every spring. After college at the University of Vermont, where she graduated in 2013 with a degree in history and statistics, Catie returned to Alta – the place that "most feels like home to me" – and began working in Kids' Club at the Lodge.

Catie has managed Kids' Club since 2014. She says, "As manager of Kids' Club, I help both the parents and the kids enjoy their ski vacation. After Kids' Dinner, the kids are occupied with movies and other activities, and parents are able to relax in the Dining Room with a great meal. Usually, when I have had an awesome day of skiing powder, kids from around the US and the world have had just as amazing day too, and it's pretty great to talk with them about it and get excited for another day of skiing."

Catie also enjoys serving guests in the Dining Room and the Alta Lodge "no-kids" club, the Sitzmark. For Catie, the best part of being in the canyon is skiing out the door. "I especially like it when the lifts are closed, it's snowing hard and it's very quiet. If I am outside, it feels like being wrapped in big comforter," said Catie. "Last winter I had a milestone event when I hiked Baldy and skied the High Shoulder," she said. "I never thought I would be able to do something like that, and there I was – it was really great!"

GUEST PROFILE: JO BLUM and PETER DAVIS

Jo and Peter first came to Alta in the 1980s, and have been Alta Lodge guests since the early 1990s. "When we walked into the Lodge, we thought, this is our kind of place – no cooking, great food, convenient and easy to ski from," said Jo. "When you look at Baldy and Superior, it hits the reset button and you really do feel like you are getting away from it all."

As Alta regulars, Jo and Peter come three times a year from Boston, and both have season passes. You'll recognize Peter by the trademark top hat he wears in all types of weather conditions, using a "stampede strap" to keep the hat in place when the wind picks up. Jo and Peter met through the Appalachian Mountain Club. Jo wasn't a skier then, but she when she watched Peter ski from the day lodge, she thought it looked like so much fun that she had to learn. She has been skiing ever since.

Jo's favorite runs are the Backside (when the snow is good) and Catherine's Area. Peter likes skiing under the lift at the top of Collins. When powder hasn't graced the slopes, they both say the groomed runs and sunshine are wonderful. They are supporters of Friends of Alta and have been part of fundraising events in Boston.

Back home in Massachusetts, Peter practices law. Jo has retired from her career as a legislative and political strategist, and stays active with running, walking and visits to the gym. During summer season, they visit the Canadian Rockies, Switzerland, and Austria, where they follow a passion for hiking.

ALTA in APRIL

Join us in April, when the Alta community hosts a variety of events for spring skiing fun in the mountains. Get a sneak peek and make some turns in next season's skis from dozens of manufacturers at the annual free demo day. The Alta Gala is held at La Caille restaurant and supports Alta's three non-profits: Friends of Alta, the Alta Historical Society and Alta Community Enrichment. Alta Lodge celebrates spring with Kids Stay Free, starting April 2 (two kids ages 12 & under staying in their parents' room, meals included) spring mountain picnics, and après ski receptions with wine and appetizers for Lodge guests. Don't miss the whacky last weekend events with costumed skiers and Alta's Frank World Classic—a day of skiing silliness below the Wildcat chair. It's an outrageous spectator event that brings out the crowds.

SUMMER SEASON in ALTA

The things that make Alta such a great place to ski also make it a beautiful place to be in the summer. The high alpine setting is abundant with wildflowers from mid-June through August. Around Alta, popular hiking trails include Catherine Pass, Cecret Lake, Cardiff Pass and Twin Lakes Pass. A few miles down the canyon, trails accessed from the White Pine trailhead include hikes to White Pine, Red Pine and Maybird Lakes. For the more skilled and adventurous hiker, there is the hike to the Pfeifferhorn. Near the base of the canyon there is rock climbing—both bouldering and numerous multi-pitch climbs on classic clean granite. Mountain biking is also becoming more popular in the canyon, with trails in Albion Basin and Snowbird. Lodging during summer season begins at $99 per night and includes continental breakfast.

WEDDINGS, CONFERENCES, RETREATS and PARTIES

The mountain backdrop at Alta Lodge is a spectacular setting for summer gatherings. Enjoy the clear, cool mountain air, natural lighting, delicious food and outstanding service, along with detailed event coordination offered by Alta Lodge. Unwind, get a restful sleep and awaken in the mountains for your group event. Contact Rosie O'Grady at rosie@altalodge.com or 801-742-3500 to discuss planning your special event. "Our guests raved about how easy it all was, how delicious the food was, how beautiful the place is, and about what a nice time they had." - Ruth and John
